BROCKETT REBUS TOO COMPLICATED FOR NATIONALS

Twelve Cantillonites Get to the Bags, But All Died or Were Flagged Out.

Highlander Takes Cantillon's Crew Over the Jumps With No Tallies.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Louis Brockett, once of Buffalo, had a chance to show what he could do on the firing line for eight innings on the hilltop yesterday and displayed none of the uncertainty that marked his covering of right field on the previous afternoon.

The former Bison was picked by Manager Griffith for the task of making it two out of three from the Washingtonians, and he well justified his manager's confidence by retiring the Cantillon combination for five non-productive hits, the Highlanders winning by a score of 4 to 0.

Keefe finished the job for Brockett and got away with the ninth round by adding another zero to the score board statistics, though he was hit once and made a wild pitch.

Brockett had to extend himself to keep the invading forces from putting tallies over the rubber, especially in the fourth. In this round the cushions were filled, with none out, on the singles of Cross and Altizer, and a gift to Anderson.

With Hickman up, the spectators saw at least two tallies for the Nationals, but the runs never arrived. Hick hoisted a fly to Moriarty, and Peters sent the relief second baseman a looping fly on which he doubled Altizer at first.

Twelve of the visitors saw first during the afternoon and ten were left on the bags. Moriarty's catch cut down one of the invaders in a double play, and Kleinow flagged another on the front end of a double steal. Twelve men led off with doubles and moved up to third on the first out, but were left stranded at the near station. Brockett put his shut-out in jeopardy a couple of times by wildness, but always could locate the plate in time of danger.

GEORGETOWN TEAM ENTERS BIG GAMES AT EXPOSITION

Relay Runner to Race—O'Gorman Leaves College And Blue and Gray Loses Best Shot Putter.

At a meeting of the executive board at Georgetown Wednesday it was decided to send a full team to the Jamestown games of June 14 to compete in the collegiate events.

The baseball season ends at Georgetown the latter part of May, and this will give Capt. Joe Montgomery a little over two weeks to round his men into good condition for the exposition contests. The varsity relay team, indoor champion of the South, will compete on that day in all its entirety, and expects to add another victory to its long list.

Blue and Gray Runners.
There will be a number of entries outside of the relay, and in the open events the Blue and Gray expects to make quite a creditable showing. O'Boyle will compete in the sprints, hurdles, and quarter-mile run; Cohen in the quarter and half; Captain Montgomery in the 220 and 440; Devine in the 50 and 100-yard dashes, and Hefferman in the weight events. The management expects to hold a field try-out at Georgetown the first part of June for the purpose of selecting several more men to accompany the team on its Southern trip.

Georgetown has only one representative in the Pennsylvania games on Franklin field this afternoon, and even the wisest of spectators do not expect to see the local school come off with a first place to its credit. Charles O'Boyle squared up matters with the faculty during the week, and was given special permission to make the trip. O'Boyle left last night for Philadelphia, and will run in the hundred-yard dash this afternoon against the best men in the East. It is not expected that O'Boyle will carry off a first place as he is not in the best of condition.

Georgetown Enters Athletic Team in Jamestown Games

Followers of track athletics at Georgetown University will not be surprised to learn that Capt. "Steve" Lorando, of the Buff and Blue squad, has decided to enter the all-round championships to be held at the Jamestown Exposition in July.

With this object in view he is daily training hard at Van Ness Park, and under the tutelage of R. E. Le Mat, who also expects to enter the all-round competition, is becoming proficient in the field events. He is also practicing with Sterrett, the Georgetown University crack pole vaulter, and expects to appear in this event next year in the meet held in the South Atlantic division.

He Has Endurance.
The all-around championship at the exposition comprises a pole vault, high jump, hurdle run, two dashes, probably 100 and 200-yard, the mile run, half mile walking race, the shot put, and the hammer throw. This program will require unusual endurance, and if the Buff and Blue captain is strong in any one point it is this.

His exhibitions on the cinder track at various times have been remarkable examples of his powers of endurance. At the intercollegiate meet the auspices of the University of Virginia, Lorando won the mile, half-mile and quarter-mile races one after the other, and all in fast time. That this was not an accidental happening is shown by the fact that he has come very near making an equally good record on several different occasions. Last year, at the same meet, he won the half-mile, two-mile races, and got second in the half-mile run.

At Norfolk, in the annual indoor meet held at this place, he took places in the mile, half-mile, and quarter-mile races, and as fresh as the end as at the beginning and could have taken part in the field events without difficulty.

Method of Scoring.
Lorando is a natural athlete, and with his build should be a strong contender for the championship. He has an immense advantage over the big men in the running races, jumps and vault, while the ordinary runner would have no chance with him in the field department.

There is only one thing which may handicap him, and that is the fact that points are scored, not by places, but by the actual record established, a certain minimum time or distance, as the case may be, being required to count anything at all, and the record time or distance in the respective events, counting 1,000 per cent. The Hatchette runner is stronger in outgeneraling his opponents in actual competition than in running against time, and this may handicap him slightly.
